WANT to speed up your planning for the European Union’s whistleblower regime?

Does your company want to be ahead of the game in the implementation of the EU Whistleblower Directive? Then do not wait any longer to start planning your organization’s whistleblower regime.

We have prepared a multi-dimensional analysis covering key areas with respect to whistleblowing. This allows you to understand the implications of the EU Whistleblower Directive in your organization.

For more information about this product, or to arrange a discussion with one of our colleagues, click here.

EU European Whistleblowing Directive (EU WBD): What organisations should do

Like many challenges in EU law, the European Whistleblowing Directive (EU WBD) provides an opportunity for organisations to respond positively to the new regime.

The Directive harmonises whistleblower protections across the EU. It gives employees the right to report certain types of illegal or improper conduct.

We assist organisations in preparing for the implementation of the Directive. To help you get started with planning your organisation’s whistleblower regime, for a fixed fee per product, we offer a strategic analysis service that provides an overview of the new regime, and advice on how to implement the EU WBD in your organisation.

For more information about this product, or to arrange a discussion with one of our colleagues, click here.

Are you a global organisation? There are also developments around the globe to consider when planning for whistleblowing laws.

Since the inception of the 2019-2020, there have been several trends of whistleblowing developments in different countries and regions. This article seeks to provide an overview of developments around the globe.

We provide a summary of key developments taking place in different parts of the world. This includes developments in countries such as the USA, the UK, and Australia. The article also provides insights into the challenges faced by different organisations when implementing whistleblowing policies.

For more information about this product, or to arrange a discussion with one of our colleagues, click here.

Contact us

We are ready to help you plan for your organisation’s whistleblower regime. Please contact us if you have any questions regarding further information.